

SOLO 401K IRS UNIFORM LIFETIME TABLE

To calculate solo 401k RMDs, use the following formula for each account:

$$\begin{array}{l} \text{Account Balance} \\ \text{as of December 31 last year*} \end{array} \div \begin{array}{l} \text{Life Expectancy Factor} \\ \text{see the Uniform Lifetime} \\ \text{Table below to find the factor} \\ \text{using the age you turn this year} \end{array} = \text{Your RMD}$$

Example

$$\begin{array}{l} \text{$100,000.00} \\ \text{Account Balance} \\ \text{as of December 31 last year*} \end{array} \div \begin{array}{l} \text{27.4} \\ \text{Divisor} \\ \text{Solo 401k participant turned 72 this year} \end{array} = \text{$3,649.64}$$

Source: Amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR part 1) under section 401(a)(9) of the Internal Revenue Code (Code), §1.401(a)(9)-9 Life expectancy and distribution period tables, (c) Uniform Lifetime Table. This table generally applies for distribution calendar years beginning on or after January 1, 2022. However, transition rules under the regulations may apply to certain beneficiaries when the original account owner or their surviving spouse died before January 1, 2022. Please consult a tax advisor to discuss whether the transition rules may apply to you.

* Adjust if you have assets that were in the process of being recharacterized, transferred or rolled over on December 31.

** The Uniform Lifetime Table can be used by all solo 401k participants, unless their sole beneficiary for the entire year is their spouse who is more than 10 years younger. In that case, the regular Joint Life Expectancy Table is used, which could reduce the RMD even further.
